

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

THE RICE MEMORIAL PULPIT

To the Congregation of Emmanuel Church:

In preparing a preface to another Year Book, I wish first to express my thankfulness for another year of united service and of generous support. The past year has witnessed the normal growth of all our undertakings. It was a year of beautiful services, large congregations, and of corresponding gifts and offerings exceeded but once in the history of the parish. All our activities were well supported and all our obligations to the diocese and to the general Church were fully discharged.

For this I offer you the warmest thanks and congratulations, and with these few words I turn from the past to the future and to matters which merit our most serious consideration. Events move rapidly in our American life. Sometimes situations arise which, if wisely and magnanimously met, lead on to fortune, and which, if neglected and ignored, may overthrow the solidest institution and bring to naught the labor of years. Such a situation is presenting itself to us at the present time. It does not daunt me, because I feel that we are able to cope with it, but this can be done, and the necessary steps will be taken only if I can convince you of the absolute need of new policies and of concerted action. We are fortunate in having a united congregation of men and women devoted to the interests of Emmanuel Church and a Vestry of unusual capacity and intelligence, so that if we become convinced of the necessity of new and vigorous action we can act together. Although it will doubtless be necessary for me to discuss these matters more than once and from different points of view, yet I am anxious that my first statement should appear in the Year Book in order that it may find its way to your homes and firesides, and that it may be preserved to prove to my successors in office that I recognized the emergency when it arose and did what I could to meet it.

As the situation to which I allude does not arise from one cause, I shall ask your permission to discuss it under several heads, and first I wish to call your attention to the problem of the city church in general. In years gone by the large city churches constituted almost the whole glory of the Episcopal Church. They were not very numerous, but they had great and permanent congregations, their Rectors were the ablest men of our communion, and they possessed nearly all the wealth that the Church could boast of. During the past generation, however, the great changes which have taken place in the social life of our people have wrought corresponding changes in the destinies of these churches. Up to fifteen or twenty years ago the trend of life was toward our cities. During these years the tendency of the well-to-do has been to leave the city and to live in the country. Formerly people possessing city houses occupied them for eight or nine months of the year. Now such houses are kept open as a rule only five or six months in the year.

Moreover, during the past five years the development of the automobile and the changes it has wrought in the social customs of our people have had a more pronounced effect on their church-going habits. For after they have returned to their homes in town, late in the autumn or early in the winter, they do not remain at home on Sundays. Many persons either keep their country houses open during the winter, or arrange them so that they can be opened at any time, and the custom of giving or attending "week-end" parties in the country has become a very general one. These conditions are not peculiar to us; they are affecting the congregations and resources of the great majority of city churches. Nor do I write these words as a reproach or a remonstrance, but as a simple statement of conditions. The fact is that unless our social customs change in a way that we have no reason to anticipate, the future of all our great city churches is very problematical. Bereft of their congregations during the greater part of the year, and deserted by their most faithful members frequently at all times, it is not apparent from what source they are to derive either their worshippers or their revenues. Bishop Thomas, whose visit this winter we remember so pleasantly, in commenting on this situation, said to me: "Formerly the large city churches were the Mecca of missionary Bishops, but they are not what they used to be. Now we are turning to the suburban parishes where we find the people." In all probability these tendencies, far from diminishing, will operate from year to year with increasing effect. They establish a new and permanent condition which, on account of the composition of its congregation, no church in Boston will feel more than Emmanuel. For this reason, a policy which has kept the Church in good condition in the past cannot be counted on for the future. New conditions require new methods.

The second factor which has arisen to alter the status of all Boston and suburban churches is the establishment of the Cathedral. I wish to discuss this question quite impersonally and with entire good humor, acknowledging the unquestioned right of the Diocese and the Bishop to have a Cathedral Church. I consider it, however, my duty to point out the probable result of such an undertaking on the parishes of Boston and on Emmanuel Church in particular. Although St. Paul's is now called a Cathedral, yet inasmuch as its congregation has retained all its parochial rights, it remains to all intents and purposes a parish church, or rather it combines the prestige, power and resources of the Diocese with the rights and privileges of a parish church capitalized to such a degree as to make competition impossible. We have already felt the effects of this and of the first condition I have discussed, in a marked falling off of our congregations and offerings during the winter, but in this case also we must remember that these effects have hardly begun to show themselves. While St. Paul's retains its present form and its pews are rented, it is not probable that its new program will affect any of our parishes very materially. But when the plans entertained for it are completed, and a handsome and much larger building is provided, with free sittings for all and with the additional attractions of the finest music and of the best preaching by a succession of the ablest preachers, it will be strange if these efforts are not crowned with success. But in a city like Boston, in which the number of church families is strictly limited, no new congregation can be created except at the expense of the other churches. I do not in any wise complain of this condition, nor is it possible for us to alter it. I merely point it out as a change of the circumstances under which we have lived in the past of which it is necessary for us to take cognizance. But if we would preserve the integrity of our parish, threatened on so many sides, now is the time for us to act. A few years hence it may be forever too late.

The third condition is the one which comes most nearly home to us and which is of most immediate importance. During the past five or six years we have been confronted with an annual deficit of five or six thousand dollars. The cause of this is very simple. Our income, which comes wholly from the sale and rental of pews, is practically a fixed quantity, while our expenses, owing to the increased cost of living and of operating all concerns, have risen and have a tendency to rise. The pew rents fluctuate slightly from year to year, but they cannot be increased, as practically all our available pews are rented, and it would be bad policy from every point of view to increase the pew taxes. This deficit has been met in the past by the gifts of a very few persons, and there is a general feeling, in which I fully share, that it must not go on.

The fourth condition with which we are confronted is the very large increase of our apportionment to General Missions. This has increased by several hundred percent during my rectorship, and this year it is larger than ever before. At present, for every dollar we pay for the maintenance of Emmanuel Church, we have to pay at least thirty cents for Diocesan and General Missions. The Diocesan apportionment is a very modest one, and yet, owing to the unfavorable conditions I have mentioned, we failed to meet it in full this year, although I used as much diligence as I have ever used before. The apportionment to General Missions is a heavy burden on us, the heaviest burden I have to bear. This is not because you are indifferent to the cause of missions, as every year you give to missions in which you are interested, amounts far in excess of our apportionment. The difficulty I have encountered in receiving from you the large apportionment to General Missions, lies, I believe, in the fact that the impersonal methods of our Board of Missions do not appeal to you. Year by year you are asked for large sums, and having given this money you know not what becomes of it. It goes beyond your ken and you have not the satisfaction of seeing what it accomplishes. I have long believed that if we were given a definite missionary field for which we were responsible, and if we received regular visits and definite statements from those in charge of the work, our disposition would be quite different. Unfortunately, at present this seems to be impossible. Meanwhile a heavy obligation is imposed on me to wring from you a large sum of money annually which you are unwilling to give. This is a burden which I neither wish to bear any longer myself nor to impose on you. It constitutes, in my judgment, one of the conditions of our parish which should be changed.

I am aware that up to this point my reflections may appear to be of a gloomy and pessimistic cast, more likely to frighten and discourage a congregation than to inspire it to great efforts. This, however, is not my purpose nor my disposition. I have stated the problems and difficulties which confront us as frankly as possible, because I consider it most important for you to realize them. But I am not in the least discouraged, because I am confident that with your support and help we shall be able to solve our problems and to find means of preserving what we have gained in the past and of adding to it in the future. The analysis is now sufficiently complete. Let us turn to the synthesis.

The first and most important step for us is to take concerted action at once to create an adequate Endowment Fund. I know of no church in this country doing a work comparable to ours on so slight a financial foundation. Nor ought we for a moment to belittle the importance of the city church. A large part of the prestige of the Episcopal Church rests on the testimony and the work of its city churches, which were never needed more than at the present time. Were they destroyed or greatly weakened, one of the most salutary influences of our civilization would be lost. Christianity gained its first victories in cities, and cities have ever been the chief centres of its power. Even if the wealthy and the well-to-do should spend their whole time in the country, the city's need of the religion of Christ and of the Church's ministry would not be less. For this reason city churches all over the country are providing for their own future by endowments which will enable them to meet the inevitable changes that are coming. Of these Emmanuel is not the least. On the contrary, there are few churches of any denomination that are rendering more diverse and important services to a greater number and variety of persons. Few churches in America are more widely known. To it come clergymen of all denominations from all parts of the country to participate in its spirit and to study its methods. Emmanuel has also been greatly blessed in the past in its Rectors and in the Christian character of many of its members. No other church with which I am acquainted in proportion to its numbers and wealth gives so generously to every worthy cause. In pleading for the future of Emmanuel I am not pleading merely for the continuance of dignified and beautiful services in our lovely church, great as this would be. I am pleading for the Ascension and Emmanuel House and for the ministering service to the poor that has been carried on so long in that forlorn part of the city. I am pleading for the continuance of a work that in the course of every year helps and blesses thousands. I desire to continue the work of the noble men who have stood at our altar in the past, especially of him under whom the church was built. I remind you of your own beloved dead with whose memorials the church is filled. I appeal to your loyalty, and devotion and generosity. In short, we have abundant motives, and also the ability and intention not to let our Church suffer loss. What so many other congregations have done, we too can do. In the opinion of the Wardens and Vestry we ought this very year to ask to receive not less than two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. And in presenting this plan to the congregation these gentlemen do not come before you with empty hands. They have made or they are prepared to make their gifts before they ask you to make yours. The reason why I say that we should take this matter up at once is that we are better able to do it now than we shall be a year hence. During that time some, alas! will inevitably be taken from us who are able and willing to help us now. With even this much endowment, which is not the end but the beginning, we shall be relatively able to meet the changes that are swiftly coming and to stop the deficit. If we fail to do this now, in a few years it will be beyond our power.

The second change of policy I wish to suggest is that we adopt the envelope system in our regular collections and offerings. The advantage of this method of giving is that it is regular and systematic and that it encourages people to assume individual responsibility. Almost all of us are willing to give a certain definite and fair amount to the Church in the course of the year. The trouble is that we are careless. When we are present we give. When we are absent we give nothing, and we seldom think of atoning for our absence on the next Sunday. When we are urged, or when the object proposed appeals to us we give largely. At other times we give very little. During the past few years the ordinary Sunday offerings have fallen off sadly, and at present they are unworthy of our congregation. They can easily be doubled if, when the matter is proposed, even the majority of our congregation will take envelopes and decide the amounts for which they feel they should make themselves responsible. This method has been tried in innumerable churches, with almost uniform success. I should not ask you to pledge yourselves for the summer when you are away, but only for the nine months of the year when the Church's activities are greatest.

The advantage of this system would not be entirely on the side of the Church. There are very definite advantages which would accrue to you. The most important would be the cessation of frequent appeals for money either in the Church or by letter. Should this system work well we could depend upon it to meet automatically all our obligations, charities and apportionments except responsibility for Emmanuel House and the Easter offering for parochial missions. The apportionment would be provided for and the administration of the parish would become unmitigated pleasure.

Such, dear friends, is the situation as I see it and the way to meet it. It may distress you to think of changes coming to our beloved Church, but this life is a life of change and the success of every undertaking depends on our ability to meet new conditions as they arise. If we fearlessly, earnestly and intelligently rise to the occasion that is now presented to us we shall preserve our beautiful Church and our work and hand them down to our children better and greater than we received them. With such protection as I have indicated we have little to fear. Emmanuel has always been in a peculiar sense a family Church and whatever attractions may be offered elsewhere which people naturally will wish to see and to hear, we are not likely to lose permanently the families which have worshipped here together for so many years. We have a great and a just Bishop, who desires the peace and the welfare of all his churches, and who is bound by many personal and affectionate ties to this parish. What I have written is very inadequate, but it must serve as an introduction to a definite plan for the strengthening and perpetuation of our undertaking. If only I can succeed in making the matter plain and in convincing you of the wisdom of this plan, I have no fears of the outcome.

Commending you to the protection of the Almighty, I remain,

Your friend and minister,
ELWOOD WORCESTER.

Given with the approval of Walter C. Baylies, Senior Warden, and S. Reed Anthony, Junior Warden, Emmanuel Church.

Daily prayers

The vital breath of religion is prayer. Without its consecration the work of the Church would be so much dead routine. Feeling this, and believing in the power of prayer as a means of spiritual culture, a group of workers along with others have met daily (except Saturday) for a brief prayer service in the Chapel. Here sick ones have been remembered, intercession has been made for Missions, personal needs and sorrows, and aspirations have been made known unto God with thanksgiving, according to the Apostolic precept. All who have taken part in these informal meetings have felt their comforting, strengthening and uplifting influence. We have far from exhausted the possibilities of prayer. Only as yet, we believe, have we experienced but a foretaste of the spiritual wonders it can work.

The Report of the Choirmaster

It gives me great pleasure to record the work of the choir for the past year, because I believe that in many respects it has maintained a higher standard than ever before, with increased value to the church and to the members of the choir themselves. At the beginning of the season it was necessary for us to accustom ourselves to changes in the acoustic properties of the church, a problem which involved considerable experiment on our part, which I do not consider we have completely solved as yet. I have been very much gratified at the success of the various musical activities of the church not included under the head of church services, such as the Choir Festival and the Lenten Organ Recitals. The festival maintained previous records both financially and artistically, while the recitals aroused considerable interest not confined to members of our own congregation.

In the spring I started what should be in time an interesting and useful addition to the musical library of the church, namely, a musical reference library containing examples of most of the best known oratorios and sacred cantatas, the service music and anthems most in use, and bound programs of the services of Emmanuel Church from 1900 to the present day. This library, comprising thirty-five volumes, uniformly bound, has been presented to the choir as the nucleus of a musical reference library, which I hope will grow year by year.

Various entertainments have been given for the choir at different times, the most successful of them a reception and supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Parker Bremer, which was voted the event of the winter. The annual outing of the boys was omitted, because I was unable to be with them. During my absence in June, the services were carried on for several Sundays under the direction of Messrs. Littlefield and Pugh, with great credit to the choir and to themselves.

I am most appreciative of the assistance I have received from many sources, which has enabled me to carry on the work as I have indicated, and to the Rector, the Vestry and the congregation for their loyal support and toleration of such shortcomings on the part of the choir and myself as may have been necessary from time to time.

The Christmas Dinner Fund

Amid the Christmas activities of our Church, none exceeds in grace and sweetness that of supplying our poorer friends with a rich and appetizing Christmas dinner. This year the number of those who shared in the benefaction amounted to about twelve hundred. Every face was radiant with joy, and in every heart, we doubt not, there burned the bright fire of gratitude for the good things received. A glance around our Parish rooms showed the usual Christmas spectacle of a mighty stall groaning beneath an uplifted burden of turkeys and chickens, flanked by tables weighted with mince pies, solid and yet digestible, tempting even the most melancholy to lay aside his sadness and eat with gusto. The usual supplements of peanuts, celery, candy, and so on, were not wanting.

Amid the delighted hum of conversation the distribution was made, and everybody was sent away radiant with the true Christmas spirit.

Sunday Evening Social Meetings

The Sunday Evening Meetings for young men and women were held in the Parish House every Sunday evening from November until May. They were a greater success than ever before and the rooms were crowded at every meeting.

We had various lectures, song-recitals, dramatic readings and piano recitals, and many other forms of entertainment. The young people themselves often showed evidence of great talent along musical and dramatic lines.

The young men made themselves useful, assisting to serve the light refreshments and in introducing the young people to one another. We trust that these meetings may continue to be a success and prevent many young people from spending lonely evenings.

Thanks are due to Miss Crafts for arranging so many delightful entertainments and to Mrs. Whittier for always being so faithful in attendance and playing the hymns so brilliantly.

Emmanuel Church Tuberculosis Class

Organized 1904

JOSEPH H. PRATT, M.D., director; LESLEY H. SPOONER, M.D., assistant, and Miss HILLS, friendly visitor.

Meets every Thursday, at 9.15 A.M., at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Out-Patient Department.

On July 1, 1912, the Emmanuel Church Tuberculosis Class completed its seventh year. Each year has brought new and more conclusive evidence of the value of our method of treating consumptives in their homes. The success of the Class has been greater than we dared to hope. In the beginning we sought only to care for consumptives who were denied sanatorium treatment. It was not long before it became evident that recovery was more frequent under the strict rest treatment we followed than under the ordinary hygienic dietetic treatment of the sanatoriums. We now know that the percentage of permanent cures, which is the real test of the efficacy of any form of treatment, has been higher among those who took the treatment in our Class than in those reported by any sanatorium known to us.

During the past year a paper has been published which describes the spread of the Class Idea. Copies of this paper may be obtained at the Church. A description of the rest treatment as developed in our Class, with a statistical report of our results, has recently been printed and will be furnished to any interested person on request.

We wish that more of the members of the Emmanuel Parish would visit the weekly meeting of the Class and see for themselves the work that is being done.

Health Conference

Organized November, 1905

This organization, now in the seventh year of its existence, has gone on during the past twelve months with unabated interest and, so far as one can judge, with undiminished success. It is gratifying to be able to record that all misunderstandings have been removed, that all prejudiced criticisms have been silenced, and that everybody who has taken the trouble to investigate at first hand what we are trying to do has gone away with feelings of respect and sympathy.

Perhaps the most striking compliment ever paid to our meeting has been the interest in it aroused in Great Britain, among ecclesiastics and physicians alike. To take one illustration out of many that may be cited: the Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, London (the Very Reverend Dr. R. W. Inge), in his sermon recently delivered before an immense congregation, singled out Emmanuel Church for special praise, on the ground of the sanity and knowledge displayed in the methods employed in connection with this work. Such facts as this, taken in connection with the manifest sympathy of physicians and ministers nearer home, encourage us to continue along the lines which we have discovered to be so useful and, indeed, so necessary, if the Church is to vindicate its character as a genuine institution of Christ. On several occasions during the past year, opportunities were afforded us to set forth our ideas before assemblies of doctors of medicine as well as at ordinary church services. Thereby a spirit of inquiry was awakened, and new possibilities of psychological significance were opened up to various types of mind. Only recently our Jewish friends in New York have done homage to our methods, by imitating them. Rabbi Wise, one of the most eminent of Jewish teachers in this country, has organized a Religio-Medical movement in connection with his synagogue, and has taken into co-operation with him several prominent Jewish physicians and specialists. It is to us a source of great gratification that the simple ideas underlying the movement have met with such abundant approbation.

Of the actual work during the year little need be added to what has been said so often in previous reports. As all the world knows, the Emmanuel worker seeks simply to bring religion close to daily life, not merely to life in its normal but also in its abnormal aspects. The lesson that religion has a message for us amid the deepest sorrows that time can inflict upon us is at last being learned. More especially we now know that religion can lift us above weaknesses hitherto deemed almost unconquerable, can transmute our consciousness of misery, fear, worry, wrong, into the consciousness of triumphant power and freedom. In a word, religion can make out of weaklings victorious personalities. And as a means for achieving this great end, Religion today has an invaluable handmaiden in modern psychology, with all its great and even startling discoveries. If the past century has been especially marked by the rise and growth of the historical method in getting at religion, the present century bids fair to achieve fame by its emphasis on the psychological approach to religion. It is as though new territories within the soul had been discovered, as if new powers and agencies had been laid bare. Through the application of these new methods, conjoined with the force of religious and ethical ideas, the soul can be lifted above evils and miseries, and can be set free for achieving the real work of life. And this is the abiding motive of our work.

Perhaps one of the most serious of the evils with which we have tried to grapple is that of alcoholism. The mental, moral and physical wrong which this evil entails, not only upon the victim himself, but also upon all related to him, is beyond calculation in words. The waste of nervous and spiritual energy from this one cause alone is appalling, and every effort to deal with it, however fragmentary, deserves the support of all persons not devoid of the humanitarian spirit. Nothing in our work has given us so much satisfaction as the testimonies which have reached us from sufferers from this moral disorder, as well as from their relatives, testimonies which in some instances, at least, have been written through a mist of tears.

Our meetings for prayer and exhortation have gone on in the usual way; and our little assemblies for prayer in the Chapel every morning have been especially helpful. Special thanks are due to those women who have given to this work ungrudgingly both of their time and their money. We are sure that the blessings which they are calling down upon the heads of others will have a reflex influence upon themselves, and will make life all the more worthy to be lived.

Miss Edith Ambrose succeeds Miss Wilson

as our Social Service Secretary. She comes to us with the highest possible credentials, and already she has shown herself to be efficient, enthusiastic and whole-souled in her devotion to the tasks that have been committed to her charge. From all sides encouragement has reached us, and we feel more than ever that this work is being owned and blessed of God, to the betterment of humanity and to the furtherance of His Kingdom.

Social Service

Organized 1908

The work of the Social Service for the year just past has followed a course little different from that of other years. Two tendencies have been noticeable, however, one a falling off in the applications for assistance from an undesirable class of men. Those clearly of the "rounder" type, without claim on the Church, have been referred directly to the Joint-Department for Homeless Men, maintained by the Associated Charities and the Boston Provident Association. News of this policy has doubtless been handed about, for during the last few months of the year there were practically no applications of this sort. As an offset to this, however, certain employment agencies seem to have learned of the work done by the Social Service Department and have from time to time sent to us their most hopeless cases for help in finding work. Here opens up a pitiful vista into the lives of homeless women, too old for real efficiency in the industrial world, yet piteously sure of their ability still to maintain themselves if given a chance. At times a little financial help has been given these, in other instances the aid of other organizations has been enlisted; occasionally, but too rarely, we have succeeded in finding work for them.

As in the year before our attention has been largely centred in the problems of work and of inebriety. From whatever angle one views the matter of employment, the falsity of the familiar, jaunty saying "Anybody who wants work can get it" becomes more apparent, rouses one to fiercer anger against the whole social system. Again and again in the past two years we have found our best plans for moral or spiritual rehabilitation thwarted by the lack of suitable employment. For the man or woman struggling with temptation toward drink and drugs, or toward doubts and fears, which are subtler in their effect but hardly less paralyzing, wholesome, congenial employment is the first requisite. This we have been in too many cases unable to provide, or only after such delay as to sadly impair its efficacy. We have been faced so often in days past with the problem of the future of the woman delicately reared, cultured, unfitted for struggle with the world by the very fact that her life, through its formative period, has been passed in unselfish service in her own home. The effort, so often, alas, unsuccessful, has been to find some place where these gifts of mind and character might be made serviceable, might be esteemed at something like their value. If members of the Parish in need of attendants, companions, managing house-keepers, would bear in mind the fact that the Social Service Department almost always has on its lists desirable people for positions of this sort, one difficulty would be much simplified. If a few employers of labor of a varied sort would take a special interest in giving our men chances whenever possible, the effectiveness of our work would be doubled.

In our study and experiment with the problem of inebriety it has become increasingly clear, to some of us, at least, that further equipment is necessary to obtain the best results. In many instances the man who seeks our aid is without home ties, in other cases his removal from home conditions is a part of his cure.

I believe that if we had a small country place in which out-door work could be provided for not more than two or three men at a time under careful supervision, and where the tone of the family life could be kept elevated throughout, encouraging results could be obtained. We have watched the workings of such a plan in the case of a young man who has made a splendid record in a farmer's family in Maine, and feel that if we could secure such opportunities for more of our men we could do much to restore many of them to sobriety and self-respect.

ANNE WILSON.

The work of the Social Service Department was put into my hands by Miss Wilson on October 1, since which time I have been getting into touch with those for whom we are actively working at the present moment and with several new cases which have since come up.

A meeting of the Committee has been called for November 7, at which we hope to outline the winter's work. It has already been proposed by Mr. Jacoby to form a woman's club which will as far as possible co-operate with the Jacoby Club. The Secretary is already indebted to Miss Mary Morton and Miss Jessie Macarow for valuable suggestions as to the outlining of the work and the promise of further help in its execution. Miss Fisher and Miss Macarow are assisting the Secretary in visiting and are doing splendid work.

The Secretary would be glad to meet any of the congregation who would enjoy Social Service work and who have two or three hours a week which they would like to devote to the service of others. A few hours a week from a number of interested, willing workers would make the Social Service of this Church very efficient. Our present list of workers, while most efficient, is too limited.

When our Woman's Club gets under way we will be most grateful for volunteer service from members of the congregation who have any talents in the way of entertaining.

The Social Service work is perhaps the most vital work undertaken as yet by this Church, as it touches the very heart of humanity in its hour of greatest need. The answer to the call for help of this kind is the realization of the ideal of Christ's religion of brotherly love. The aim of Social Service is the embodiment of brotherly love.

EDITH M. AMBROSE.

The Jacoby Club

Organized 1909

The results accomplished by the Jacoby Club during the past year have been most satisfactory, alike to its founder, the members of the Club, and the many sincere and generous friends interested in its work.

The opening of the new and cozy quarters of the Club early in the year added new impetus to its growth, and the membership has been greatly augmented, with new candidates applying for affiliation at each meeting.

The Club owes much to the generous friends through whose aid these quarters were made possible, the home-like atmosphere and wholesome amusements provided filling a long-felt want. The rooms are open every evening from 7 to 10 P.M., and attract a goodly number of members. This is a great factor in our work as it gives a man a place to go at any time when discouraged and where he knows he can always find a friend.

Every effort is made in the work to ascertain the chief cause of a man's troubles. If it is uncongenial home life or environment, the Social Service is called in and aids greatly in straightening out matters. If work is the problem, he is aided in securing useful work. If the spiritual side of the man's life has been dormant, efforts are made to have him reach the right plane of thought and feeling. In this latter work, we owe a great debt of gratitude to the work being done by the Rev. Mr. Bray. His democratic disposition and his unselfish efforts have already endeared him to every member of the Club.

The method adopted of each member helping another by a so-called "special brother" arrangement has been of great value. By this method each member is made responsible for a certain fellow member and as new members come in they are included in the plan. If a member is absent from meetings, is ill or in any trouble, it is the duty of his special brother to ascertain the cause of absence, to secure his attendance at meetings, and to aid him in every possible way. This not only helps us to do far more work, but also helps to make the work more efficient, as in no way can a man's best be developed so well as in making sacrifices for his fellowmen.

The older members are gratified at the addition of so many young men to the Club membership during the year. They feel assured that these young men can greatly profit by the advice of those who, from years of experience, can point out to them the pitfalls and uncertainties of every-day life, and that they will heed the friendly advice given.

The Saturday harbor outings were continued during the summer months, and were thoroughly enjoyed by many members. They were of great value in keeping the men together during the summer season.

The problem of useful work for those trying to gain a fresh foothold in life has been taken up earnestly and with much success. Work is the greatest factor in a man's well-being. There is no surer way to put a man on his feet, to upbuild him, to develop his mental, moral and physical make-up, than useful work. Friends of the Club have been of great help in solving this problem, by aiding to secure positions for many men, while a number are at work in an enterprise directly managed by Mr. Jacoby, the results of which are a source of much gratification both to the men benefited and to those interested in their welfare.

Interest in the work of the Club increases as time goes by. The founder labors with increased interest and unflagging zeal, and with the Rev. Dr. Worcester, the Rev. Dr. McComb, the Social Service of the Church, and the generous men and women interested in the project working in enthusiastic and earnest accord, the future promises great results.

The efficient work of Mr. Montgomery Goodwin, the Club Secretary, the co-operation and aid of Dr. Irwin Neff, Superintendent of the State Hospital at Foxboro, the Associated Charities and other organizations and individuals interested in the special line of work being carried on must be warmly commended.

We are very grateful to our friends for their contributions during the year, especially to the ladies who gave a portion of the proceeds derived from a musicale and to a little girl who donated a liberal sum realized from a fair held under her direction during the summer.

While the work of the Club has already accomplished results beyond our farthest hopes, we are trying all the time to improve our methods. We are at the present time arranging a new and more complete system of records. This we believe will aid in doing still greater good, as we feel that by it we can demonstrate what we believe to be the most economical and efficient way of helping the man who is down and out.

Respectfully submitted,
WILLIAM H. NOLAN,
President.

Sunday School Report

The system of instruction used in both schools puts textbooks into the hands of all scholars who can read. The children are expected to read at home the Bible passages connected with the lesson and to answer certain questions devised to bring out the main points of the lesson.

This method accustoms scholars to handle and to read the Bible and to come to school with some interest in and knowledge of the subject for the day, a foundation on which the teachers may build. The success of this method depends largely on whether or not parents encourage their children to take the lesson seriously and to make the small amount of preparation required.

In the Huntington School for colored children it is found impracticable to get the scholars to do much in the way of preparation at home, therefore the whole work of the lesson will be done in class except for some light memorized work. The larger number of pupils in this school enables the classes to be graded more systematically and satisfactorily than in the Vinton School.

Out of some eighty families represented in the Huntington School, only about ten are not connected more or less definitely with some other church.

RALPH BRAY,
Superintendent.

The Parish Association

The Annual Meeting of the Parish Association took place in the Chapel on All Saints' Day at quarter after eleven. Dr. Worcester, in opening the meeting, welcomed those present, and expressed the hope that the year being entered upon would add another to the long series of years of successful and good work.

The Reverend Ralph Bray spoke of the work of the two Sunday Schools of the Parish Church. The methods pursued required of scholars the reading of the Bible and preparation of the lessons at home, and parents were requested to superintend the home-work of the children.

Miss Sherburne, on behalf of the Dorcas Society, reported a year of steady and useful work and of untiring devotion on the part of members. The Society had sustained a great loss through the resignation of Mrs. William M. Conant.

The President of the Woman's Auxiliary, Mrs. Henry P. Quincy, reported an increase of membership during the year and a large and attentive study class. Several addresses had been given by Missioners in active service. It is hoped this year to interest more of the younger women in the active work of the Auxiliary.

Dr. Pratt reported on behalf of the Tuberculosis Class. The success of the Class, now in its eighth year, had surpassed expectations, the percentage of permanent cures being larger than that of any sanatorium known.

The United Offering report, read by Miss Katherine French, showed amount raised by this Fund $991.40.

The year's work of the Guild was reported by the President, Miss Katherine French. The sum of $143 was contributed to the Chelsea Marine Hospital towards the salary of a visitor. The Guild had a year of wide usefulness. Among many institutions helped, the following may be mentioned:— Emmanuel House, Sailors' Haven, Blind Babies' Nursery, Society for Helping Destitute Mothers and Infants, School for Crippled Children, the Children's Island Sanitarium and St. Monica's Home.

The Embroidery Class report, read by Mrs. Walter C. Baylies, indicated much faithful work accomplished by members.

Miss Alice Butler, in the absence of the Secretary, read the report of the King's Daughters. The Entertainment and Fair held during the year was the most successful the Society had held. Many poor families had been helped and visited and donations had been made for hospital and church purposes.

Miss Susan W. Hardy reported that the Guild of Consolation had continued its work of visiting the sick and aged. Work had been obtained for some blind musicians, and concerts arranged for them. Among other cases helped, a young man suffering from infantile paralysis had been provided with medical advice and treatment.

The Junior Auxiliary, through its leader, Miss Edith B. Waters, reported a membership of forty-four, with an average attendance of twenty. By a sale of work the sum of forty-seven dollars was raised for missionary purposes.

The Rev. W. L. Clark spoke of the work of Emmanuel House and the Church of the Ascension. The negro communicants of the Church number fifteen per cent of the total. The introduction of the duplex-envelope system had been a great success, enabling them without any special effort not only to pay their apportionment for missions, but sixty-three per cent more.

The district was one of continual change, the main elements of the population being Irish Roman Catholics, negroes, white Protestants, Jews and Italians.

A vacant lot at the back of Emmanuel House had been turned into a Kitchen Garden, where residents of the neighborhood might grow their own vegetables.

The sphere of usefulness of the Church Periodical Club (which is managed by Miss Madeline Reynolds, Librarian), grows with each year. Not only have boxes of books been sent to needy places at all points of the compass, but family, Sunday School, Club, and even Public Libraries have been initiated. Several members send one book a year by mail to a given address.

Deaconess Libbey gave a very interesting resumé of the Summer Work at Fay Cottage. The wonderful summer weather and the excellent health of children and parents had contributed much to the success of the work. One woman, sadly in need of rest and change, gained nine and a quarter pounds in one week at Fay Cottage. A graphophone was one of the things most desired for the work, a clock was needed for the living room, while dolls and bathing suits were always in demand.

The report of the Students' House, read by Miss Libbey, showed thirty-five girls in residence. The House consistently aimed to maintain Christian family life among the residents. A club formed for girls living outside the House numbered one hundred and fifty members.

Dr. McComb spoke of the Health Conferences and Sunday Evening Meetings for young people. The work of the Health Classes grew more and more spiritual in character.

The Sunday Evening Meetings had been attended as well as ever, the room proving all too small for the gatherings. The entertainers vied with each other in ability, instructiveness and interest.

The Tuesday morning Bible lectures, while intended primarily for parishioners, had been taken advantage of by many others who were very gladly welcomed.

The Summer Harbor Excursions (Miss Florence R. Rhodes, Secretary) gave a day's outing to over eight hundred people, many of whom were under medical care and badly needed such outings. For many women this was the one day of freedom from home cares.

Mr. Ernest Jacoby reported on the work of the Jacoby Club. The Club rejoiced in their well-provided club room, which was kept open every week night, and always there was some one in charge to welcome men. Strong endeavors were being made to get each man to make efforts to help some other man in need. The Club interested itself in getting work for the men, in improving their home conditions and in bringing spiritual influences to bear upon them. During the summer, the men had been kept together by delightful harbor excursions. It was hoped soon to start a woman's branch of the Club, under the direction of Miss Ambrose.

The Social Service report contained first Miss Wilson's notes on the year's work followed by a further report by Miss Ambrose, now in charge of this department. A large number of cases have been dealt with in an efficient manner. There is much need of voluntary helpers, willing to devote a few hours a week to social work.

Dorcas Society Secretary's Report

In the number of years I have written the annual reports of the Dorcas Society, I always wish there was something new to write about, but the good work has been, and is, so faithfully and successfully carried on, that one year differs very little from another.

Every one, officers and cutters, work and give of their best, to make all things run smoothly and harmoniously.

During the winter of 1911 and 1912, eighty-nine women received 3765 pieces of sewing and a large number were sold for $856.59.

Over one thousand dollars was paid the women.

We made garments for the Children's Hospital, New England Hospital, City Hospital and Sewing Circle; gave away over forty pieces to the Tuberculosis Class, fifty-two to Episcopal City Mission, fifty-eight to Deaconess Libbey, and forty-three to Miss King, visitor of the Church of the Ascension.

It is easy to see that to complete such a number of orders and garments, ready for the sewers, requires untiring devotion on the part of directors and cutters and they deserve all praise.

The sewers, to whom this Society means so much, were very grateful for the Christmas baskets and garments given them the last day.

We are very grateful to Miss Clark for her annual generous donation.

The Dorcas Society has certainly met with a very great loss, in the resignation of Mrs. William M. Conant, on account of leaving Emmanuel Church. Mrs. Conant has served the Dorcas Society many years, as Treasurer, taking a real interest in all its workings and administering its funds faithfully and with the hopeful spirit the position demands. Officers and sewers will greatly miss her, and her place will be hard to fill.

During last season, the officers were forced to accept the resignation of Mrs. George A. Leland, who has been the purchaser for a long time and deserves our most grateful thanks for her efficient services to the Dorcas Society.

In closing, the officers wish to thank all who have helped in the past and bespeak their continued interest, and also to make a special appeal for new cutters, who will undertake to come regularly.

Secretary's Report

The Woman's Auxiliary of Emmanuel Church began the winter of 1911-12 with a special meeting to consider the enlargement of its own membership with a view to increasing the general enthusiasm of the Parish in Missions. A conviction that the deepening and broadening of the missionary interest which is going on all over the world and in all the churches must not be ignored among us had grown upon the Society, and it was felt that certain preliminary steps should be taken without delay. Dr. Worcester presided and several suggestions were made and carried out. The most important of these were the Circular Letter from Dr. Worcester to the women of the Parish, and the Mission Study Class led by Mrs. Gardner Hall. The former, enclosed a card containing several questions, the answers to which were intended to express the willingness of the recipient to take part in the missionary life of the Parish. The number of cards filled in and returned was comparatively small, but on the whole the answers were encouraging.

The Study Class was large and the attendance kept up well. The textbook chosen was "The Why and How of Foreign Missions," a book which has been widely used in our own Church as well as throughout other denominations. Several missionary speakers were asked to address the Auxiliary and the Study Class together, among them being the following: Rev. P. G. Snow of Kearney, Neb.; Bishop Rowe of Alaska; Mrs. G. C. Bartter of Manila, P. I.; Rev. J. A. Welbourn of Japan.

Next year it is proposed to extend still further the interest of the women of Emmanuel Church in Missions and to include more of the younger women in the active work of the Auxiliary.

The following boxes were sent during the season:

To a Diocesan Clergyman's family, box valued at . . . . .	$256.62
To Rev. Eric Forsberg, box valued at . . . . .	221.99
To Rev. J. A. Kennedy, box valued at . . . . .	182.64

MARIAN DEC. WARD,
Secretary.

In April the Society reluctantly accepted the resignation of Miss Marian DeC. Ward, who has so ably filled the office of Secretary for twenty-two years. A rising vote of sincere thanks was given Miss Ward for her faithful, efficient and self-sacrificing devotion to the work for so long a time.

The Guild of Emmanuel Church

The Guild met on the first Tuesday in every month during the past year from November to May. There was one general meeting at which the members sewed and cut out garments. At the other meetings the Guild was addressed by the following speakers: Dr. Worcester; Mr. King of the Sailors' Haven; Miss Wilson of the Social Service of Emmanuel Church; Miss Hills of the Emmanuel Church Tuberculosis Class; Mrs. Francis C. Lowell, President of the Women's Auxiliary, and Mrs. John L. Suckling of the Boston Young Women's Christian Association. An appeal for subscriptions to continue Mrs. Allan's salary as visitor to the Chelsea Marine Hospital was sent out early in the year and $143.00 was contributed for this purpose.

Members of the Guild helped Mr. King as usual at Christmas time, going to the Diocesan House to address and fill envelopes containing Christmas greetings to the sick in the Boston Hospitals and also assisted in serving the Christmas dinner to the sailors at the Sailors' Haven in Charlestown. The usual generous Christmas dinner was sent by several Guild members to Miss Burnap's Home.

The annual concert with refreshments was given by the Guild at the Sailors' Haven on March 7. The entertainment was provided most acceptably by girls from the Students' House.

Miss Reynolds of the Church Periodical Club kept the Guild informed during the winter of the interesting work done by the Club and at each meeting of the Guild, Mrs. Whittier and Miss French reported on City Missions and the Women's Auxiliary.

There were twenty-one meetings of the Cutting Committee from October 24 to April 30, at which were cut out 1064 garments. And there were made and given away 1019 to the following: Miss Libbey, Emmanuel House, Sailors' Haven, three poor families, Archdeacon Spurr, Blind Babies' Nursery, Social Service of Emmanuel Church, Society for Helping Destitute Mothers and Infants, School for Crippled Children, the Children's Island Sanitarium and St. Monica's Home.

Besides the clothing there were also given away one hundred and fifty-one packs of playing cards, one helmet, sixty-four mufflers and twenty-eight calendars.

The Flower Mission met every Tuesday morning during June, July and August, and 2598 bunches of flowers were given to the sick in the City Hospital throughout the season, and to the Chelsea Marine Hospital during July and August; once to the Homeopathic Hospital and once to Miss Burnap's Home. The flowers were much appreciated by the patients.

Mrs. Nathaniel S. Simpkins, Jr., resigned the presidency of the Guild at the beginning of the year and Miss Katharine French was appointed in her place. Miss Rosamond Bradley succeeded Mrs. Frank Bemis in the office of Treasurer.

The Guild has had a good year and much work has been accomplished and we are hoping to do even more this winter.

Embroidery Class Report

The Emmanuel Church Embroidery Class accomplished quite a little work during the past year, notwithstanding the meagre attendance.

One new green altar cloth and antependium were embroidered for the Church. Five altar cloths for the Chapel were made over, one black antependium for the Church was lengthened, and three protectors were also made.

When spring came it was found that there were three stoles still unfinished, and Miss Morton kindly offering to finish them during the summer; her offer was accepted. It has been decided to discontinue the Class for a year or two.

CHARLOTTE N. BAYLIES,
Chairman.

The Church Periodical Club

The helpful co-operation of the members has accomplished the sending of 263 current magazines regularly by mail this year. Forty-two boxes have been sent by freight, containing 1360 books, 1900 magazines, 750 cards and calendars and 230 pictures and games.

Through the generous interest of some members our branch has been able to do more than usual in buying new books to fill special wants, either singly or in libraries. One gift enabled us to send a library of seventy books to a Sunday School in Maryland; another special gift started a library for a boys' club in Wyoming; two small collections of books were sent to other towns in the West to serve in each case as the nucleus of a future Public Library. On receipt of one of the libraries came the message: "The books have all come and it is very hard for me to find words to express the feelings of the young people in this gulch. Many have called to look at the books and they are so well pleased, as such a fine selection of books has never been seen here, and there seems to be a book for all ages."

Two Christmas boxes were sent with books, games and dolls to Sunday Schools in North Carolina.

One experiment we tried this season was the sending of a number of family libraries to homes in country places. A selection of half a dozen books was made, according to ages and tastes of the children, and these little libraries were very gratefully received, whether in the ranches of the West or in our own rural districts.

Several of our members have agreed to send one book a year by mail to a given address. Single books have thus been sent to missionaries in Mexico, Alaska, Japan, Brazil, etc. There is no estimating the pleasure that is given through the Church Periodical Club to many who live in isolated places where books must to a great extent take the place of companionship.

Besides all these new books many boxes of good second-hand books and illustrated magazines were sent from the Parish. These reached the lumbermen in camps, mountaineers of the South, sailors, patients in hospitals, students in Divinity Schools and young people in many reading rooms, covering a wide range of places where reading matter is scarce and much needed.

The record of accomplishment in the past is always a challenge to do more in the coming year. At the meeting of the Church Periodical Club held in April, addresses made by Miss Ward and by Miss Wood both showed what an opportunity the Club has for extended usefulness. Miss Wood's account of Boone Library, Wuchang, China, made each one present feel the importance of the work of that library and also the importance of our own part in helping that and similar institutions. It is hoped that this year special gifts will be made to enable us to send much-needed books to our workers in China and Japan.

Will you help the Church Periodical Club?

By sending a magazine regularly to a given address?

By sending a book once a year to a given address?

By collecting, packing and forwarding miscellaneous books, magazines, music, cards and games to a given address?

By giving an annual subscription?

By giving a Family Library, a Sunday School Library, a Traveling Library or a whole Public Library?

The King's Daughters

The King's Daughters have met as usual the first and third Thursdays of the month, supper preceding each meeting. There has been an average attendance of twelve members.

Our entertainment and fair this year was the most successful we have held, netting us over $150.00.

We were fortunate in being able to help a number of poor families who were in dire need by sending them clothing and provisions, and by visiting them.

Sewing was given out from June to October, and our old ladies are always on hand, faithful and grateful. One of the women passed away during the summer, so her work was given to another woman who very much needed it.

The Circle sent two well filled cases of reading matter, tobacco, etc., to the men at the Nauset and Provincetown Life Saving Stations.

We were also able to contribute in a small way to the Church Periodical Society.

We regret very much the removal of two of our active members, who have gone out of the State.

We gave our usual donation to the Woman's Free Hospital and also donated a little towards the renovation of St. Anne's Church, Dorchester.

Our Annual Service was held on Ascension Night in the Chapel. Dr. McComb gave an interesting talk at this service, and two new members were admitted.

The Circle enjoyed outings at Kenberma and Nahant which were provided by two of our very good friends.

Report of the Chancel Committee

I am glad to report a very successful year for the Chancel Committee. We received two beautiful altar cloths for the Church. One was given by Miss Lee and used for the first time last Christmas. Although it was mentioned in the 1911 Year Book, I should like to take this opportunity to express the thanks of the Committee to Miss Lee for so beautiful a piece of work. The other cloth was a green one and made by the Embroidery Class, and the Committee is very grateful to them. The old green cloth was likewise made over to fit the Chapel. In other respects the year passed much as usual. There is always a certain amount of difficulty in getting members for the months of May, June, July, September and October so that if there are any who would like to join, I should be very glad to hear from them.

The Girls' Friendly Society

The Girls' Friendly Society met all winter in the Parish Rooms on Monday evenings, beginning with the Holiday House reunion and ending with an admission service.

Three lectures, three parties, a musicale and a candy pull, together with six lessons in folk dancing and six evenings of sewing, filled the time with work and play.

Two dolls were dressed and sent to Arch-deacon Spurr and some money was given to Christ School in Arden.

One probationer was admitted to membership and three members were advanced to the rank of senior members, making in all nine senior members and nine regular members with five Working Associates and fourteen Honorary Associates.

The Students' House and Club

It is with the deepest regret that we record the resignations of two valued members of our Board of Directors. Mrs. Mumford was one of the founders of the House and Club, and during the thirteen years of its existence has rendered the highest kind of service to Committee and students alike. Mrs. Lyman has been our Treasurer for four years, and, with a genius for figures, has managed our finances on sound business principles.

While other Student Houses much our juniors have outstripped us in numbers and equipment, we have gone steadily on, our aim never having been to touch great numbers or to shoulder the burdens of a large plant, but rather to touch closely a group of earnest students. We have a family of thirty-five, besides about a hundred girls who have the privileges of the Club, which includes a room in the Students' House set apart for them.

The girls living in the House have proved themselves very cordial hostesses to the "outside" girls, and many pleasant and helpful acquaintances have been made around the cosy tea table. One afternoon of each week two members of the Board of Managers poured tea for the girls, and it is needless to say that this was a very popular afternoon. It also gave the ladies an opportunity to know more intimately the girls and their work. While it is our deep concern that the girls committed to our care do good work and that they have suitable pleasures, it is our chief concern that all this young life, coming to us in every instance with a letter in hand from her minister, does not drift away from religious habits formed at home. Every day is begun with a hymn and a prayer for God's blessing on the day, and I am sure that it is this that has saved us from sinking to the level of a boarding house. Dr. Worcester has generously set apart two pews in the west gallery of the Church for the use of the girls who are Episcopalians.

Every year finds the girls with an increasing desire to be helpful. Two concerts were given last winter, one at the Sailors' Haven, which has now become an annual affair, and a second concert on one of the warships in port at which about four hundred men were present. They also earned over a hundred dollars for their Scholarship Fund, a fund which they have created for helping along some struggling student among their own numbers.

An interesting movement was started last year by Mr. Deland, a champion of all good works, known as the Students' Theatre League (there is also a Wage Earners' League) to enable students of limited means to see the best things at the theatres at one-half the regular rates. The Students' House is a splendid market for tickets for theatre, opera and concert, which people often find at the eleventh hour they cannot use. We are very grateful to the friends who remembered us last year, and especially for the girls who are studying music, the opera and concert are educational as well as pleasurable.

We want to record, too, the gift of many of the current magazines for our library table, as well as clothes, both street and party dresses, which have done more good than the donors will ever know.

Two bright particular occasions stand out in the history of the year — a lovely evening party given by Mrs. Holmes at her own home, and a Sunday evening in the spring when Dr. and Mrs. Worcester supped with us and sang hymns with us.

Of any work we are doing we all want to be assured from time to time that it is worth while. The close of last year brought us so many letters from students who tried to put into words what the years spent at the Students' House had meant to them, and from parents telling us what it had meant to them, and asking for God's blessing on our work, that we are reassured that the Students' House is worth while.

Respectfully submitted,
MARY ELEANOR LIBBEY,
Secretary.

Mothers' Meetings

The Mothers' Meeting, in two sections, met on Thursday and Friday afternoons from November until May, with a good average attendance. The membership is about one hundred. We lost two good members through death last year. Mrs. Calif was an older woman, but she had been a good mother, was a splendid Christian and met bravely a painful death. Mrs. Burbank was for many years an active member of the Salvation Army, and up to the time of her death spent all her evenings in a mission trying to urge upon wayward men and women the joy of living the Christian life.

The work of preparing sewing for these meetings is more than balanced by the real pleasure our mothers take in their meetings together. A good deal was accomplished during the year in the way of work, too. To brighten up the meetings and to give the tired mothers some good cheer to carry away with them we had some good music on several occasions and always a cup of tea and a short, bright service at the close of the meetings.

STUDENTS' CLUB ROOM

Mrs. Potter gave our mothers a beautiful entertainment at the Church of the Ascension, and we shall not soon forget her cordial hospitality to her visitors.

Miss Rhodes, whom our mothers think of as a sort of fairy god-mother, enacted the role of Santa Claus again this year, and we had a beautiful tree, with gifts for all, and a professional entertainer who did wonderful feats of legerdemain.

Respectfully submitted,
MARY E. LIBBEY.

Report of the Junior Auxiliary

The Junior Auxiliary of Emmanuel Parish, Boston, held its meetings on the Saturday mornings during the Lent of 1912. The members did brass-work, pasted scrap-books, did sewing and basket-weaving. The children held a sale at the end of Lent at which they made forty-seven dollars. This money will go toward buying the garments and toys for the Indian Christmas boxes sent in the autumn. There were forty-four members and the attendance at the meetings averaged about twenty. The children sent seventy-five Easter cards to the Rev. Mr. Mayo for his school among the poor whites in Virginia.

The Guild of Consolation

The Guild of Consolation continued to care for its group of ten old women — two of the number died last year and their places have been filled by others. Through Miss Florence Birchard we heard of some blind young men, musicians, graduates of the Perkins Institute, who were in need of work and encouragement. We arranged two concerts for them which were very successful and members of the Guild gave them other work. Dr. Worcester sent us to a young boy of seventeen, suffering from the effects of infantile paralysis. For him we have obtained expert advice and treatment. If it only results in the promised improvement we shall have given him something better than consolation.

Summer Work

Fay Cottage

Weather conditions were pretty nearly ideal, and, as every one knows, the weather is the largest factor in a good holiday. Showers came at night and washed the foliage and laid the dust, and a couple of rainy afternoons only furnished a good excuse for lighting a fire on our hearth.

An additional cause for thankfulness was the good health of the family. We had one hundred and twenty-nine guests, besides a permanent family of five, and did not require the services of a physician the summer through. This is a good record, taking into consideration the amount of unripe fruit which is always available in the country, and which is a great prize to the average city child because it is "free." But, believing still in the old adage that prevention is better than cure, we this year installed a large supply of castor oil, and promised a generous allowance to every offender, with the result, as we have said, that we had no illness.

We have coveted for several years a pair of platform scales, and this year a good friend made them materialize. The guests were weighed on their arrival and on their departure, and some of them every day, and the total gain was 239½ pounds. The largest individual gain was 9½ pounds in ten days.

THE FAMILY GARRYALL

EN ROUTE FOR THE BEACH

One of the pleasantest incidents of the summer was the receipt of a box from the Candidates Class at the Church of the Ascension. It contained children's bathing suits, prettily worked bureau covers, and bibs for the babies, all made by their own hands. It was the very greatest pleasure for them, too, to come and find their gifts so useful.

Fourth of July was a red-letter day. We had been presented with a beautiful new American flag, and we swung it to the breeze to the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner," after which the children pledged their allegiance to their flag and to their country in good patriotic fashion. In the evening the porch was gay with sparklers. Of course we had ice cream, and we retired with a consciousness that we had spent a safe and a sane fourth of July, and a happy one, too.

I wish it were possible for us to have more animals about us in the summer. The children love them, and this year even the horse had to be kept away from the Cottage. Some of the children one day attempted to wash up a neighbor's pigs, and it is needless to say that their work was not appreciated, and they were sent home in disgrace.

It was a disappointment to mothers and children alike to come back this year and not find Miss Weeks as a helper. She had been our coachman as well as our musician for four years and she was a real loss. It is not easy to find the person who can work and play with equal zest, and we were fortunate in securing Miss Conger to fill Miss Weeks's place.

Never before in the history of the Cottage have so many people visited us. Dr. and Mrs. Worcester honored us by dining with us. Mr. and Mrs. Clark motored over from a neighboring town and gave us all a delightful surprise, and not least was the visit of Mr. and Mrs. Fay to inquire for our comfort and happiness.

I think vacation houses are very happy places to put memorials for little children, and perhaps there may be some one who would like to have their memorial take the shape of a graphophone, which I am sure would give untold pleasure for many years. Another need is a clock for our living room. We do not possess a clock of any description. Our dolls are very short-lived. They are literally loved to death. And then the supply of bathing suits is never equal to the demand.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY ELEANOR LIBBEY.

Summer Harbor Excursions

1912.

The summer harbor excursions have given over eight hundred people in Emmanuel Parish at least one day's outing this season.

Two hours on the water and the rest of the day filled with the out of door pleasures that the sea-shore can give make the time pass only too quickly.

These excursions have been especially beneficial this year to young children who were under medical care, and needed just these outings, also to women who depended on this trip as their one day of freedom from home cares.

These parties are planned so as to bring congenial people together and everything is done for the comfort and pleasure of each one, so that every one, old and young, has one long happy summer day to remember.

Year after year the ocean, the rocks and the beach hold the same delights and never grow monotonous even if the day's program remains about the same. It is the personal experiences which varies every year that cannot be written about.

Ascension Camp

The summer camp for boys and young men is one of the most valuable features of the many activities at Emmanuel House. There is a marked improvement in the physical appearance of each boy, as the result of his stay in camp. Each boy leaves camp stronger in body, with a good "tan," and a gain in weight of from two to five pounds, and a strong desire to remain longer.

The camp is well located for the health and safety of the boys. The tents are in a pine grove, on the banks of a small lake, which is safe for boating, fishing and swimming. There is also a good baseball and athletic field. There is an equipment of cook house, two tents, a tepee, and one boat. This equipment furnishes room for fourteen boys. There are five squads, each squad remaining ten or twelve days. Boys who are weak physically are kept longer in camp.

Camp activities are baseball, rowing, fishing, swimming, hikes, athletics and picking blueberries. Each boy is taught to swim. Baseball teams are organized and play games with neighboring teams.

Camp life for boys has two valuable and definite results upon each camper. First is the improvement in the physical welfare of the boy. Many boys enter camp pale and weak physically. The life in the open, with good, well cooked food, and the various activities, bring increased strength and weight. One boy gained six pounds in ten days.

The second definite result is the effect upon the moral well-being of the boys. Away from the streets of the city, and under the regular routine of camp life, the better nature of a boy is awakened. The evening campfire is one of the most interesting and valuable features of camp life. Songs, stories, and the day's experiences are related. As the fire dies away, the Bible reading and prayer leave an impression which is never forgotten.

Report of the Vicar

Our aim has been to make the Church minister to every human need and to provide means of self-expression. The hunger of soul and of mind and of body we have tried to satisfy by the services of the Church, by the social and educational work of the House, and by personal assistance in sickness, poverty and sorrow. Nothing that pertains to the welfare of a human being is foreign to our work. But it is not enough to work for others — we must teach others to work for others; the reports which follow show that every social organization connected with the Church has included this ideal in its activities during the past year. We have tried to make this Church the real centre of the lives of those who belong to it; how well we have succeeded it is impossible to say, but the contents of this book show that we have not entirely failed.

Morning and evening services have been maintained throughout the year, except during July and August, when the evening service was omitted. Special services were held during Lent as usual. Sunday School began October first and ended May twenty-sixth and had 277 members. The communicant list at present is 505; about five hundred other people on our list call this their church, making a total of about a thousand persons to whom we minister. All these have been systematically visited by the clergy. In spite of many removals and a gradual change in the character of the neighborhood, the membership has been maintained and the attendance at the morning service is as good as ever; the evening service has fallen off on account of local conditions which cannot be discussed in this book.

The social organizations provide for all ages and both sexes; the little girls enter the Girls' Friendly Society Candidates Class and pass from there at adolescence to the Girls' Friendly Society, and some years later to the Women's Guild and the Mothers' Meeting. The boys' club life begins with the Massasoit Indians, later the Boy Scouts, at adolescence the Knights of King Arthur, and at manhood the Ascension Club. This system has been successful in holding our young people year after year. The most gratifying comment we have heard was made by one of our small boys, who in writing to a friend said, "We have great sport at our Church." Two organizations whose single purpose is service have done excellent work — the Altar Society and the Women's Auxiliary. All these organizations together have a membership of 428.

We have had classes in cooking, sewing, gymnasium and kindergarten, with a total membership of 264, and a remarkably good average attendance. Our work for the neighborhood was the weekday kindergarten, Stamp Savings Bank, library, summer play school, playground and garden. The last was a new venture and so aroused the interest of the neighbors that they protected it from damage by inimical small boys. A full report of it will be found elsewhere in this book.

Financially this is the best year the Ascension has ever had; we raised for the support of worship, missions and Sunday School $3367, an increase of twenty-five per cent in ten years. We gave to General Missions sixty-four per cent more than our apportionment, besides contributing to Diocesan Missions and education and responding to special appeals.

I am grateful to the many people — too many to mention by name — who by their loyalty and sacrifice of effort and money have made it possible for me to write this gratifying report.

WILLIAM L. CLARK.

Report of the Choir Master

Our choir consists of a quartet and chorus of mixed voices, vested. Members of the chorus volunteer their services.

In addition to the music sung at regular services, we gave our usual carol services with combined adults' and children's choirs on the Sunday evenings following Christmas and Easter. The children's choir of thirty voices joined with us also at the Sunday School graduation exercises on the last Sunday in May.

On the evening of April 21, the second Sunday after Easter, the clergy, choir, and organist made exchange with Rev. P. E. Osgood, Rector at Church of our Saviour, Roslindale, who brought his organist and choir, giving a repetition of the Easter music sung in both churches. During the summer we were without the quartet, but the combined choirs assisted in the services each Sunday.

On Halloween night, 1911, a cotillion party was given at Emmanuel House. This was largely attended by choir members and friends.

The annual Choir Picnic was held at Bass Point on June 17.

Regular work was resumed by the adult choir on September 22.

Our choir library now comprises about 104 anthems, 46 Christmas and Easter carols, 48 service numbers (Te Deums, Magnificats, etc.), numbering in all about 198. The library has also recently received some substantial additions through the generosity of Mr. Gales, organist and choir-master at Emmanuel Church. We are always glad to obtain new members. In closing I should like to repeat the last paragraph in my report of 1911:

"We are very much in need of an enlarged organ. The present one, although of fine tonal quality, is sadly inadequate in power at times, and I invite the serious consideration of this matter from those who may be interested and appreciative of our needs in this direction."

FREDERICK N. SHACKLEY.

OFFICERS

MISS ETHEL KING . . .	President
MISS THOMASINE PERRY . . .	Vice-President
MISS ANNA JOHNSON . . .	Treasurer
MISS GRACE SNYDER . . .	Secretary

Although we have had a smaller staff of workers than usual this year, the work has been carried on as well as usual.

We now have complete sets of all the Altar hangings, and they are in good repair, as are the linens, and the surplices of the clergy. Miss Perry has made some new pieces for the Altar, and a number of cottas for the senior choir, besides which she has had as usual the care of the children's choir.

The senior choir has been well taken care of, and at present we have plenty of vestments. We hope next year to have new hymnals, as the ones we have now, although they have been rebound, look rather shabby, and we shall by then need a new set.

The children and teachers of the Sunday School have helped us wonderfully. Two classes combined and gave to the Church a set of numbers for the hymn boards, besides which Miss Perry's class presented Mr. Clark with a white stole, and Miss Milligan's boys gave an embroidered surplice to each of our clergymen. Also several classes gave flowers for the Altar on different occasions.

All winter we had flowers nearly every Sunday, given by different people in memory of some one who has passed away, but during the summer we had none, excepting on communion Sundays, when they were furnished by one of our honorary members. Are there not some others who would be willing to give flowers once during the summer?

We have been able from the fees of the honorary members, to purchase a number of things for the Church and robing room. All the funds we have are received from these members, who pay us fifty cents annually. We are always glad to add new names to our list, as there are numerous small things which the Church needs, and which the dues of new members would enable us to buy.

Some of our members have helped us in other ways as well, and we are grateful to them, and to those who subscribed last year, and hope through their contributions and the efforts of the workers, not only to do the work as well as formerly, but to improve it in many ways.

Sunday School

The Sunday School is organized in three departments: Kindergarten, Primary and Junior; these include nine grades, and the pupils are graduated about the same time that they finish public school. Generally we are not able to hold them in Sunday School after they leave day school. The graduation is the climax of the year. In order to emphasize the importance of the school in the eyes of parents as well as scholars we have this ceremony at the principal Church service on the last Sunday in May. It was first tried in 1908, and has had such a good effect on the school that it has become an established institution.

Each department meets separately; the Kindergarten and Primary in the House, the Junior in the Church. The Junior Department session opens with a service led by its own choir. Here the pupils learn how to take part in the liturgy and to worship in the Church. After this the classes separate to their rooms in the House for the teaching of the lesson. The course of study will be found on the next page. In all except the ninth grade the emphasis is put on the memory work as being the most important during these years.

The offering is made by the pledge-envelope system, every pupil contributing, and the class treasurers keeping an account with the school treasurer and drawing on him when they have voted to spend money. The only restriction in regard to the use of money is that it shall be spent to make some one happy. This system has greatly increased the offerings and developed the missionary spirit.

That this is a good school is the only inducement we offer for attendance. We keep the parents in touch with the school by quarterly reports and personal visits; and we believe that if the school is worth coming to no other inducement is necessary. One boy who comes a long distance with great regularity when asked why he did not attend a school nearer home replied, "I like to go to a school where they don't throw books."

About thirty-five women form the Society of the Guild and meet together twice a month, "on the second and fourth Tuesday evenings" to discuss ways and means for helping the work of the Parish. The first work in the autumn is to get ready for the Annual Fair. Then meetings are held every Tuesday evening for the purpose of making aprons of all kinds. Most of our members live a long distance from the Church, and find it difficult to get out evenings, but there are faithful ones always on hand to assist. We cannot have too many workers, and urge all who can to come and help us. And it is not all work; we have our social times also. The treasurer's report gives an idea where the money goes.

The work of the season was begun on Wednesday, October 25, seven members being present. Acting on the suggestion of Miss Houghton it was decided that we work for the Diocese of Lexington, Kentucky. Several of our members brought articles made by them during the summer months, a considerable help, also showing a live interest in our work to help those in need. During the year we enjoyed several talks by different officers of the Auxiliary. One evening a stereopticon talk was given by Miss May on "Women and Child Life in India." Members of the Parish were invited to these meetings. We tried to increase our membership by making personal calls on people whose names were furnished by the Vicar. Toward the end of the season several new members joined, and we hope for a wider interest in this worthy work. The first work undertaken was for a Christmas barrel. This was sent to Miss Jackson, Epiphany Mission, Blackstone, Va., and consisted of useful garments, also dolls, Christmas cards, hair ribbons, etc., to make a real Christmas barrel. The contents were valued at $18.50. Our next work was for Kentucky mountaineers, and we are well pleased at the result, as our barrels were filled with useful and good clothing made by a few earnest and willing workers, also second-hand clothing sent in by some of our members and friends. The value of the barrels was $72.34. We valued and packed our goods at our last meeting, May 1. There were sixteen members present, and we enjoyed a social afterwards. We wish to thank all who have helped us in our work and trust that many more will be interested also. We will be thankful for clothes, toys, magazines or anything that would be a help in brightening the lives of our destitute Christian brothers and sisters. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me."

Ten dollars and fourteen cents ($10.14) was received from the Women's Thank Offering Boxes.

Girls' Friendly Society

Objects: 1. To band together in one society churchwomen as Associates, and girls and young women as members for mutual help, for sympathy and prayer. 2. To encourage purity of life, dutifulness to parents, faithfulness in work, and thrift. 3. To provide the privileges of the Society for its members, wherever they may be, by giving them an introduction from one Branch to another.

The value of the third object has been particularly obvious this year, as we have received six new members under that provision; three came from Scotland, two from Ireland and one from England. If it had not been for the Girls' Friendly Society they would have had to make friends where they could, running the risk of forming associations which would have been detrimental. Besides, instead of having to fight their way in a strange country they have been admitted at once to a friendly circle and surrounded with good influences.

The regular program for each month is a service and business meeting, a lecture, a social and some kind of work for others. At the service an address is usually made by the Vicar. The lectures (some of them illustrated) have been on "The Three Central Rules," "The Higher Education of Women," "Missions," "Woman Suffrage," "Liberia," "Birds," "Readings from Dickens," "Mountaineers of Virginia."

One of our associates spent the summer as a volunteer worker in a mountain mission in Virginia, and on her return she interested the Branch in doing something for the mission. The members gave a play to earn money and the proceeds were given to buy materials for altar hangings which the associate is embroidering. The Branch also worked as usual for the Parish Fair and the tables under their care made a profit of $188.06.

There have been many social activities (Halloween Party, musicales, games, dances, plays and suppers), which are an important part of the work. The numbers remain about the same as last year.

CAROLINE F. CLARK.

Girls' Friendly Society Candidates

The Class of Candidates for the Girls' Friendly Society has had a successful winter. The high average of attendance shows that the girls are interested in their work, and their loyalty and appreciation are a continual encouragement to the teachers. We have built up a club spirit, and I feel sure that the Class is a strong influence for good in the lives of many of the girls. Some of them are striking examples of unselfishness and devotion to their families, though there are of course some instances of rowdyism and of doubtful moral character. It seems as if home influences were responsible for these last cases, but their connection with the Class, which necessitates attendance at Sunday School, must certainly influence them for good.

The Class opened on November 7, meeting on twenty-seven successive Tuesday afternoons until May 14. The meetings begin at four o'clock with singing, and a short service, then we divide into separate classes, and sew, embroider, or crochet for an hour, ending at quarter of six, after fifteen minutes of dancing and games. The two youngest classes make scrap books, string beads and knit reins, which are a welcome addition to our missionary boxes.

The membership started with eighty-three names, increasing to ninety-five, and ending in May with eighty-eight. The average attendance for the winter was eighty.

Three of our members joined the Girls' Friendly Society. Eight girls have moved away, some of whom we transferred to other classes, but three we could not trace. One wayward girl is being boarded out. Three of our graduates have become assistants in the younger classes. Fifteen were confirmed in March and were given books on Confirmation.

At the first meetings, the girls made articles for the grab at the Annual Fair for the Church on December 6 and 7, making $35.85. A delegation took charge of the lemonade and made $8.41.

During December each girl made a present for her mother, either a duster, an apron, a sachet, or a pincushion. They paid for the materials, which were bought by the teachers. These were presented to the mothers at a Christmas celebration on December 20, when forty-two of our members entertained us with recitations, piano and violin playing, songs, and fancy dances. Ice cream and cake were served later. Almost all the mothers were present, and we all had a beautiful time. Miss Morrison's class visited St. Monica's Home, giving great pleasure by their singing of Christmas carols.

The Class attended the Annual Service for Candidates in Trinity Church on April 27, when Mr. Clark delivered a fine address. After the service Miss Morrison's division were invited to take tea with her. Miss Fay entertained her class at supper at her house in April. Mrs. Mixter invited her girls to luncheon at her house in Swampscott, sending each girl home with flowers and apples. In the spring Mrs. Wodell gave her class a picnic on the Public Garden with rides in the swan boats.

The Class contributed fifteen dollars to the Floating Hospital, and sent a box to Fay Cottage containing six bathing suits, nine embroidered bureau covers, an embroidered centrepiece, six bibs and fifteen wash cloths. A crocheted afghan and a lovely embroidered quilt were sent to the Children's Island Sanatorium.

The Sewing Circle League gave their usual play on January 16. Their efforts were greeted with prolonged applause.

At the last day exercises on May 14, Miss Ruth Wells gave us an interesting talk on the ideals of the Girls' Friendly Society, which was greatly appreciated. Thirty-four first prizes were given for perfect attendance for the year, and eighteen second prizes for being absent only once. Prizes were given to three girls for perfect attendance for five years, two for three years, and eleven were present at every meeting for two years.

We have a correspondence department. A number of our girls are writing to little candidates in remote places, China, India, England, Nova Scotia, West Virginia and Utah. The letters are read to the Class, and interest the girls in the spread of the Girls' Friendly Society.

The Class is in eight divisions, under Mrs. William J. Mixter, Mrs. Thomas Motley, Mrs. Alice C. Wodell, Miss Evelyn G. Morrison, Miss Mary Fay, Miss Ruth Anthony, Miss Marjorie Clark, Miss Gertrude Hunnewell, assisted by Miss Louise Sisson, Mrs. James A. McCoy, Miss Natica Inches, Miss Ruth Cumnock, Miss Marian Swan, Miss Marian Sutherland, Miss Doris Cann, Miss Gladys Heintz, Mrs. Arthur Marston, Miss Edith Prescott, and occasionally by Miss M. E. Wardwell, Mrs. Samuel McComb, Mrs. T. Motley, Jr., Miss Hilda Foster and Mrs. Andrew W. Anthony.

Miss Quincy has served faithfully as secretary.

The Mothers' Meeting

Our weekly meetings were held as usual from January 11 through the month of April. One cannot judge of the success of a winter's work by the number of women present at the meetings. Most of them now live in Roxbury, and considering the unpleasant Thursdays of 1911, we were often surprised that so many made an effort to attend. Early in the winter we entertained the mothers of the Church of the Messiah, Mrs. Robeson giving them a charming recital. Not long after we invited the mothers of Emmanuel Church to visit us, and provided through the kindness of a friend, a unique performance, a delightful concert given by three young blind men, a violinist, a pianist and a singer.

Dr. McComb on another occasion spoke eloquently of the power derived from prayer, and what the result upon character would be if we formed the habit of turning hourly to the Lord for guidance.

In April Mrs. Potter, as her custom has been for years, gave an ice cream party. Many interested friends were present. The Rev.

Mr. Clark opened the meeting, and when Mr. Gales arrived with nine of his choir boys, the music and singing made the afternoon perfect, for the boys' voices seem to deeply stir the mother hearts of our women.

The last musicale was arranged through the kindness of Mrs. Bremer, assisted by two ladies. The audience, when some popular songs were sung, joined in the chorus, and one of our members being requested, took her place at the piano and gave some Hawaiian ballads. Such a feeling of fellowship seemed to invade the room that if tea had not then been served, I think we should have had dancing.

Again I extend a cordial invitation to any member of the Parish interested in this work to call at Emmanuel House on Thursday afternoons from three to five o'clock.

A. F. MANNING.

Ascension Club

The past year has been one of the most successful years the Club has had since its foundation. It has been a year in which many things have come to pass which have greatly encouraged us and showed that the work which the Club is doing is well appreciated.

The results of the efforts we have made to increase our membership has been extremely gratifying, and the attendance at our monthly meetings has been such as to show that all the members are taking a great deal of interest in the Club and its welfare.

We have had many good times during the year. Frequently we held a whist party, having dancing after the prizes had been awarded.

The greatest social event of the year, of course, was our Annual Ball, which was held in Intercolonial Hall. This event was extremely successful financially as well as affording every one present a pleasant time.

This year we added another enjoyable time to our list, namely our May Party. The enthusiasm with which this was received is the best proof possible of its success, and this will probably be an annual event in the future.

We wish to extend to our Vicar, Mr. Clark, our sincere thanks for his many kindnesses during the year, and to assure him that they have been appreciated.

The outlook for the future is a very bright one, and although in the past we have been very fortunate, we feel certain that the future has many good things in store for our Club.

Secretary.

EMMANUEL HOUSE BASKET BALL TEAM

BOYS' CLUBS AT EMMANUEL HOUSE

The organizing of boys' clubs is one of the most effective means of carrying on work among boys and young men. It is also a difficult problem, for as the boy grows and develops, he loses interest and sympathy in his former associations. If we are to keep the interest and enthusiasm of a boy through the entire period of his boyhood and young manhood, we must have clubs corresponding to the various periods of a boy's life.

At Emmanuel House we have three organizations which seek to appeal to the boy during his developing and changing life.

THE MASSASOIT INDIANS

The "Massasoit Indians" was organized last year for the younger boys between the ages of ten and twelve years. Each boy who joins this tribe chooses an Indian name and is known by that name while he remains a member of the tribe. "Camp fires" are held twice each month during the winter, and games are played in the gymnasium. The "tribe" spends ten days in camp during the summer. Indian signs and customs are taught to the members. This is the Indian period of life, and each boy imagines that he is a native warrior performing deeds of valor. The "good Indian" with his fine native traits of character is emphasized. Loyalty, courage, and discipline are the signs of a good Massasoit.

THE BOY SCOUTS

This organization was started two years ago, and forms the next step in the boy's life. Boys from twelve to fourteen years are eligible for membership. There are various activities which interest and hold the allegiance of the members. Each boy attends the gymnasium and receives regular physical training; basket ball games and athletic meets are held during the fall and winter; instruction is also given in Scout Craft, care of the body and First Aid.

KNIGHTS OF KING ARTHUR

This is the oldest and most successful organization at Emmanuel House. It is for boys and young men between the ages of fourteen and eighteen years. Last year the boys added to the completeness of the Castle Hall.

Conclaves, socials, or other interesting activities are held each week. Two social dances were held during the winter. A "bean" supper was one of the most successful affairs and was voted to be held annually. The Annual Initiation of Knights and Barons was held in the Church of the Ascension in the spring. Two basket ball teams represented the Knights and played each Saturday evening in the gymnasium. Three visiting castles were entertained, and one new castle was initiated.

The Annual Banquet was held in May, which is always of great interest and benefit. Last year three Harvard athletes attended and gave a talk on "Clean Sports."

The Annual Knights' play was given in April before the parish people.

REPORT OF THE KINDERGARTEN

Kindergarten opened on October 2, 1911, and by the end of the month we had thirty-seven children enrolled. The average attendance for the entire year was twenty-five. As it was the second year in kindergarten for a number of the children they were able to do unusually good work, and left us well prepared to enter primary school.

We have had seven meetings for the mothers during the year, and all were very successful.

We had at least eleven mothers at every meeting, and on three occasions fifteen were present.

Nearly every child brought pennies to be deposited for them in the Stamp Savings Bank, and altogether they saved fifty-two dollars and ninety cents. Two of the children saved over six dollars apiece during the year.

Kindergarten closed on the twenty-fourth of May.

Respectfully submitted,
EVALYN MARTIN.

SEWING SCHOOL

I have an excellent report to give of the Sewing School this year. We started with thirty-one girls, but some of them came only one or two times, and we settled to the regular work of the winter with a class of twenty-five, which was divided into four graded sections.

We had an average attendance of nineteen and the work was surprisingly good. The children were really interested, a great deal was accomplished, and we were all encouraged.

Prizes were given to three girls for perfect attendance, behavior, neatness and sewing during the twenty-three Saturdays.

The difficulty is always in finding efficient and regular teachers and I should be very glad of any offer of assistance.

CAROLINE GRACE JEWELL.

HOUSEHOLD CLASSES

The Cooking Classes opened on October 28. The first year class met on Saturday at 1.30 with twelve girls registered and an average attendance of nine. These girls were from ten to twelve years old.

The course is very simple, covering the general cleaning of the room and utensils, and the cooking of some simple foods, the aim of the class being to teach them how to work in a cleanly and systematic manner.

The second year class met on Wednesday at 5.30 with eleven registered and an average attendance of nine. Three girls had perfect attendance. Their ages were from twelve to fourteen years.

They continued the work of their first year, learning to cook some new dishes, and also combining the foods already learned into simple meals and serving them. They prepared several luncheons and dinners costing from thirty to sixty cents.

There was a Boys' Class beginning on December 14 with ten members, of whom six finished out the year. They were from thirteen to fifteen years old.

These boys did much the same work as the first year girls' class.

GIRLS AND WOMEN'S GYMNASIUM

A change was made this year in the times for the different classes to meet. Thinking it might be more helpful for the members of the married women's class to meet on some other evening than Monday, their lessons were given on Thursdays and the young women met on Tuesday evening, while the children had their Monday and Thursday afternoon classes as formerly. The plan has not proved a great success. So many whist and dancing parties have been held in the House on Thursday evenings throughout the season that the gymnasium pupils have had half an hour's work and then excused themselves and gone to the other attractions. This has been quite detrimental to our department and the women have deeply regretted the fact that these two attractions came on the same evening.

The younger women also felt that the Girls'

Friendly Meeting on Monday made Tuesday evening undesirable for gymnasium, as it kept them out late three successive evenings, if they attended church on Sunday evening too. This is a feature to be corrected next season.

An unusual amount of illness has befallen the families of the women's class, so that although we registered twenty-one in all we did not often have more than ten present, and three of the entire class had a perfect attendance for the year. The class has progressed remarkably in the past year, considering that some members have been ill and others obliged to be absent frequently. Almost every member has borne eloquent testimony to improved general conditions of health, and great sacrifices are often made to attend the gymnasium class. Some of the members have been put in the way of consulting a specialist when such advice was needed and much good has resulted.

The young women's class has been small in numbers, but fifteen having registered, and but one having a perfect attendance, yet the very few who have been faithful in attendance have requested the privilege of having the use of the gymnasium one evening in the week for the spring and summer. One member of this class, Miss Mildred Barteaux, has been studying during the year at Dr. Sargent's

School for Physical Training, and has done most faithful, conscientious and satisfactory work in teaching the younger children at Emmanuel House. She has offered to take charge of this girls' class during the summer, and the experiment will be tried.

The younger girls' class has enrolled forty-six, which proved too large a number to handle to advantage; so after Thanksgiving a division was made, and the result made the adult girls' class (meeting on Thursday afternoons) number thirty-one and the younger children's thirty-six.

We have lost several members during the season. Some have moved too far away to be able to attend; several are high school girls, who, having gymnasium work three times a week in school, do not so much need exercise of this kind, and their mothers and teachers require work and study of them, which leaves no time for the Emmanuel House Gymnasium.

There were nine perfect attendances and three absent but once in the Thursday class and four in the Monday class never absent and four absent only once on a very wet day.

Miss Brunell has again taught, doing excellent work in folk dancing and basket ball coaching, while Miss Barteaux has proved invaluable in assisting in any class where there seemed an especial need for her services, though the younger children owe more to her than do the older ones.

Miss Bertha Jones, who has been for seven years a member of the girls' class, has proved helpful as an assistant in distributing suits, opening lockers, etc., and has been obliging and willing when present to help make the work a success.

We lost our much esteemed accompanist, Miss Blanche Channell, soon after she married and went to Hyde Park to live, but we were most fortunate in getting as her successor Miss Jennie Carmichael, whom the girls love and respect and whom we all enjoy having play for us.

Bathing has been participated in to a much larger extent among the children than in former years. One who is not in the work would be greatly surprised to know how deep-seated is the prejudice against taking a bath when one is in a perspiration after exercise and is going out in the cold winter air. They fear to take cold if they bathe while hot. Now it is no uncommon thing to hear a small girl arguing with another and saying, "Oh, but you will take cold if you go out when you're hot without taking a warm bath and ending with cold water!"

Two dozen fine new rubber bathing caps have been added to our possessions as well as bean bags and several balls.

Mrs. William Lindsay again generously remembered all the girls' classes at Christmas with the usual box of Christmas candy, which was appreciated.

While there is much that we hope to improve upon another year, still the work on the whole has been quite satisfactory and gratifying in its results.

Instead of pins and badges as prizes, felt bands, of light blue for the younger and red for the older children, were given them, with 1912 in white. These were awarded for perfect attendance, while white E. Hs. were given to those in each class who did the best work.

This choice of prizes seemed to meet with general approbation.

MARTHA E. MACCARTY,
Director of Girls and Women's Gymnasium Classes

THE LIBRARY

Last year the Library gave out books to over a hundred children. Fifty-three new books were bought with the interest from the Mary L. French Memorial Fund. A large per cent of the new books were fairy tales, as they give the children more pleasure than any other kind of reading.

Besides taking home books, the boys and girls of the neighborhood often read in the Library, and sometimes the librarian tells the children stories.

STAMP SAVINGS

The Stamp Savings report for the year ending October 11, 1912, is $108.72; of this amount $52.90 was saved in the Kindergarten. Most of our depositors are children.

REPORT OF THE VISITOR

I am writing on October 8, 1912. We have just started our Kindergarten with an attendance of thirty-nine children; it is an interesting group, composed of several nationalities. With the exception of the Sunday School, which began the first Sunday in October, this is the first of our classes to start work for the winter.

Last year we had gymnasium classes for men, women, boys and girls; also cooking and sewing classes. These we shall continue this year, with the addition of dressmaking. At Christmas a group of Sunday School children gave an operetta under the direction of Miss Mary Parkman; and two plays were given during the year by the older boys and girls. For several years the Sewing Circle League has entertained our Girls' Friendly Candidates by giving a dramatic performance. The children enjoy it immensely, and we are very grateful to the League for their kind assistance.

The Church organizations using the House for their meetings are, the Vestry, the Guild, the Women's Auxiliary, the Girls' Friendly Society, the Girls' Friendly Class Candidates, the Knights of King Arthur, the Boy Scouts, Massasoit Indians and the Ascension Club.

Miss Manning had her Mothers' Meeting as usual on Thursday afternoons, and the Kindergarten Mothers met once a month. The library was open daily except Tuesdays from November to May; thanks are due our volunteer workers for making this possible.

During the summer our playground, which is well equipped with apparatus, was a very popular place, and when it was too hot to play in the sun some of the children did very good work in raffia basket making. The Play School under the direction of the Episcopal City Mission, opened early in July for a term of six weeks. This is a morning session from nine to twelve o'clock for children three to twelve years old. Some very creditable work was done by the older girls in dressmaking. About twenty dresses were finished.

For several years we have wanted the vacant lot at the back of the House used for gardens. This year a kind friend made it possible, and we and our neighbors feel it has been a great success. A full garden report will be found elsewhere in the Year Book.

Our outings this summer were the Bass Point excursions twice a week, which mean so much to those who cannot be away from home more than a day at a time; and the Episcopal City Mission picnics twice a week for boys and girls. The Boys' Camp at Rock, Mass., and Fay Cottage, Falmouth, Mass., for women and children are outings of ten days' duration. Two women told us that they never had such a "good rest" or such a "nice time." One day in the summer a lady came to the House and said she wanted to do something for the children. She came once or twice and read to a small group, then she had a happy thought. She would hire a "Seeing Boston" auto. Nothing could have pleased the children more, and three times the auto came and took them to Concord and other suburbs of Boston; it was a wonderful experience for them, and we want to thank our friend again most heartily for her generosity.

We wish to acknowledge gifts from the Dorcas Society and the Guild of Emmanuel Church, also those from individuals, which make it possible for us to help others.

ETHEL KING.

THE PLAYGROUND

The increase in the number of children attending the playground this year was indeed gratifying. There were three reasons which undoubtedly helped to bring about this condition. First, more children in the neighborhood. Second, the almost ideal weather conditions, and third, the exclusion of the older boys from the yard. The older boys naturally were interested in more boisterous games and pursuits than the younger children. In the progress of their different games, because of the restricted area of the playground, were apt to interfere with the rights of the younger children.

PLAYGROUND

PLAYGROUND

This of course caused more or less friction, the mothers in many cases hesitating about allowing the little ones in the yard. Since the new rule was made, however, the trouble has been entirely removed.

Through the kindness of Mrs. Colfelt about fifty of the children enjoyed an automobile trip to Concord and Lexington. The day was a glorious one, the start being made about nine o'clock. A pleasant hour was spent visiting the various places of historic interest. By that time the children were quite ready for their lunch, which is always such an important feature of every child's outing. The ride to and from Concord and Lexington was of course filled with interest for the children, as well as being very instructive. All voted that their little outing was one of the most enjoyable of the whole summer.

Perhaps there is no branch of the work which holds the interest of the children as does basketry. Many of the girls would work continually on their baskets were they not encouraged to spend part of their time in active pursuits. The more experienced girls were allowed to work out many more difficult and intricate patterns and the excellence of their work was generally commented upon by those who had the opportunity of seeing it.

The children had their annual party during the middle of September. This is always anxiously looked forward to by both boys and girls. The smaller children took part in an action story, while the larger girls participated in pretty folk dances. Ice cream was then enjoyed by all. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in social dancing, of which the children never seem to tire.

The bubbling fountain proved a great boon, not only from a sanitary standpoint, but because of its convenient location it enabled the children to have cool refreshing water without leaving the yard. The writer hopes that next year the sand boxes may be replaced by sand tables. The shallow metal trays with which the tables are equipped may be very easily emptied, cleaned and refilled with fresh sand. For this reason it will be readily seen that the tables are much more sanitary than the boxes.

GARDEN

The garden work was very late in starting, due to the Elevated strike making it difficult to obtain the necessary permit to use the land, which belongs to the Elevated Railroad. After much trouble the blue print showing the true line boundary was received and the fence promptly built; the land having been leveled and dressing plowed in before fencing. The space, about one hundred feet square, was laid out in twenty-five garden plots, with a border on all four sides.

Planting began the twenty-fifth of July — about the time the third crop is usually planted. With constant cultivation excellent crops have been gathered of radishes, lettuce, string beans, Swiss chard, turnips, beets and carrots.

But most important has been the interest and pleasure our neighbors have taken in the garden. Not a day passed without the call of "teacher" from the sidewalk; always some one who wished to ask questions, or say, as so many of the colored people have, "Dat looks lak ma ole Virginia home." The colored women across the street begged the radish and turnip leaves for salad, and it was fine that the children were willing to give the leaves away, for one of the colored women saved the lumber for our fence when the "neighborhood ruffians" were about to carry it off. It has not always been smooth sailing, for this same crowd of boys delight to make trouble for the gardeners and instructor. But with careful handling by the leader no serious damage has resulted.

Our flowers were few this year, but enough to bring the constant request for "A flower, please." Next year we must have as many as our border will permit, for the beauty of the garden, and that the children may learn the joy of giving to our neighbors.

"Save me a garden next year," "I want two gardens next year," "How early do we start next year?" "Oh, Miss Bradley, I have my bank all started, so I will have my money ready for the garden next year!" And many more expressions of the same character show that we shall not be able to supply the demand for gardens when we open in the spring.

Respectfully submitted,

JULIA HARVEY BRADLEY,
Garden Instructor.

FREE LEGAL BUREAU

Several years ago the writer was deeply moved by a stirring appeal made by Dr. Worcester from the pulpit of Emmanuel Church in behalf of the Emmanuel House work. Such an impression was made that the writer offered his help. He proposed to establish a Free Legal Bureau at the Emmanuel House under such terms, conditions, and limitations as the Vicar should stipulate, and should bind himself to conduct the same for a period of one year. The Vicar received the plan with enthusiasm, declaring it could be of immense value to the House, detailed the use of an office for Friday evenings and allowed the writer to carry out his plans in his own way. From the start the Bureau was a success, and at the end of the year the Vicar expressed his personal gratitude over the results, and was pleased to learn that the work was to be continued.

During the past five years a great variety of cases, domestic, juvenile and general, have been brought to the writer, not only by members of the House, but also by persons who live in the vicinity, but who for obvious reasons are not entitled to all the privileges of the House. In this way its sphere of usefulness has been enlarged. Some cases have required but a word of counsel, others have required time and care to adjust, and only in extreme cases has recourse been had to our courts. But when necessary, cases have been taken up to the civil, criminal and even court martial. Indeed almost every variety of human oppression and human wrong-doing has come before the writer's attention, and it has been his privilege to use his professional skill and knowledge in such a way that the wrong has, in many cases, been righted and the oppression removed as quietly and expeditiously as possible and at no expense.

WILLIAM A. BRADE.
